Foreword

We're pleased to introduce "Diversity and Inclusion Disclosures: A good practice guide".

PwC's 16th Annual Global CEO Survey highlights that workforce diversity and inclusion is the top non-financial priority for CEOs after ethical behaviour, with 50% of global CEOs focusing on this within the next 12 months.

Research has also shown that when diversity is acknowledged, managers find new ways to maximise and capitalise on the different skills, styles and sensibilities of employees. This leads to greater employee engagement, building a business case for a diverse workplace.

Hence, public listed companies in Malaysia are required to disclose their diversity policies for its board of directors and workforce in terms of gender, age and ethnicity from 2015 onwards.

With this in mind, we have published this guide to help you with this transition. We hope that you find this guide useful and interesting as you embark on disclosing your diversity and inclusion policies and measures. If you have any queries or would like to discuss any of the content in more detail, please speak to us, or your usual PwC contact.

Why have a diversity policy in place - and talk about it?

Doing the bare minimum will have you covered in these two aspects...

Stakeholders

Meeting the requirements and expectations of stakeholders like the Government and community.

Fairness and equality

Giving everyone in the organisation equitable opportunities improves morale and motivation.

...but going one step further will help you stand out from the pack.

---

The Differentiating

1. The business imperative

Diverse organisations financially outperform their less diverse counterparts.

Also, decisions based on a broader palette enhance innovation and solutions.

2. Widening the talent pool

Tapping into multiple resources means more access to a high quality talent pool for your organisation.

<sup>2</sup>World Atlas of Gender Equality in Education, UNESCO, 2012.

<sup>4</sup>Business and Professional Women's Foundation, Gen Y Women in the Workplace, 2011

3. Improving efficiency and talent retention

Performance and productivity will improve, as will retention levels.

<sup>5</sup>The Corporate Executive Board Co., 2013

Factors

Employees in a diverse organisation are<sup>1</sup>:

70%

more likely to see their organisation capture a new market.

45%

more likely to see their organisation improve market share.

In 93 of 139 countries<sup>2</sup>, women make up the majority of students and receive more tertiary degree qualifications.

In Malaysia, millennials make up 40 - 50% of the workforce<sup>3</sup>. By 2025, one in every three employees will be a millennial<sup>4</sup>.

When employees feel that they have a more diverse and inclusive workforce, turnover is almost 20% lower<sup>5</sup>.

Why disclose your diversity policies?

Disclosure drives awareness of 'blind spots'

Diversity must have a spotlight shone on it in order to make progress. This implies that it has visibility in leadership meetings on an ongoing basis.

What could happen if you don't talk about it?

A McKinsey 2012 report found that,

“though CEOs made gender diversity a priority in more than 80% of our 60 participating companies, only about half of employees surveyed from the same companies agreed that the CEO is committed to it.”

How did we get here?

Globally, diversity has become one of the driving forces to strengthen an organisation's position in the marketplace. Bursa Malaysia is facilitating this by implementing diversity disclosure requirements for the boardroom and the workforce in terms of gender, ethnicity, and age.

The chart below shows the various initiatives undertaken to push forward with efforts to promote diversity among the PLCs:

GRI G4 indicators for D&I disclosures

Beyond just complying with Bursa Malaysia's requirements to state diversity policies, your PLC may wish to consider D&I disclosures in line with the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) G4 Guidelines for Sustainability Reports.

For each aspect below, companies need to disclose at least one indicator to achieve a 'Core' in accordance with the GRI G4 Sustainability Reporting Guidelines:

Aspect: Employment <sup>1</sup>

GA-LA1 – Total number and rates of new employee hires and employee turnover by age group, gender and region

- ✓ Total number and rate of new employee hires and/or turnover by age group, gender and region

GA-LA3 – Return to work and retention rates after parental leave, by gender

- ✓ Total number of employees that took parental leave, by gender
- ✓ Total number of employees who returned to work after parental leave who were still employed twelve months after their return to work, by gender

Aspect: Diversity and Equal Opportunity<sup>1</sup>

GA-LA12 - Composition of governance bodies and breakdown of employees per employee category according to gender, age group, minority group membership, and other indicators of diversity

- ✓ Percentage breakdown at governance level by gender, age, and ethnicity
- ✓ Percentage breakdown per employee category by gender, age, and ethnicity

Selected global case study Intel (listed in the US)

D&I policy

Diversity is an integral part of Intel's competitive strategy and vision. Our goal is to be a leader in diversity, and we develop annual diversity action plans with recruitment and employee development indicators that are monitored quarterly.

Intel provides equal employment opportunity for all applicants and employees without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry, age, disability, medical condition, genetic information, military and veteran status, marital status, pregnancy, gender, gender expression, gender identity, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic protected by local law, regulation, or ordinance.

Nestlé S.A. (listed in Switzerland)

D&I policy

“As a global organisation, diversity is high up on our agenda. We want a culture that provides equal opportunities for everyone and that ensures people are always treated with dignity and respect. We’re aiming to diversify our talent pool and promote gender balance as a priority. We’ve still got work to do to improve gender balance, especially at management levels, so we’ve signed up to the UN’s Women’s Empowerment Principles to strengthen our commitment. We see improving all aspects of diversity, across Nestlé, as an asset, helping us harness the local insight and imagination of our people, and building our competitive advantage and responsiveness to customers’ and society’s needs.”

D&I approach

As a global company, PepsiCo works in countries with a broad array of laws and regulations. Regardless of where we operate, PepsiCo takes great care to respect the diversity, talents and abilities of all.

At PepsiCo, we define diversity as all the unique characteristics that make up each of us: personality, lifestyle, work experience, ethnicity, race, color, religion, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, age, national origin, disability, veteran status, or other differences.

Definition of diversity includes tangible and intangible characteristics

Royal Dutch Shell plc (listed in the UK)

D&I policy

We have a culture that embraces diversity and fosters inclusion. By embedding these principles in our operations, we have a better understanding of the needs of our varied customers, partners and stakeholders throughout the world and can benefit from a wider talent pool. We provide equal opportunity in recruitment, career development, promotion, training and reward for all employees regardless of colour, ethnicity or physical ability. Where possible, we make reasonable adjustments in job design and provide appropriate training for employees who declare a disability.

We actively monitor representation of women and local nationals in senior leadership positions, and have talent-development processes to support us in delivering more diverse representation. The proportion of women in senior leadership positions was 17.2%, compared with 16.2% in 2012.

In 32% of the countries where Shell subsidiaries, joint ventures and associates are based, local nationals filled more than half of the senior leadership positions, compared with 42% of countries in 2012. From 2014, we will no longer apply this metric, as it does not reflect expatriation of local nationals for talent development purposes. Instead, we will start using a revised metric that better represents our activities in this respect.

Senior leaders actively engage in diversity and inclusion networks, internally and externally, and we have numerous active employee interest networks representing different communities within the organisation.

CELEBRATING DIVERSITY

The talent at Astro are as diverse as the seven million Malaysian households we aspire to serve. We count the ethnic and cultural richness of Malaysia as the most invaluable traits of Astro team members.

With 41% of our talent below 30 years old and women making up 52% of our staff and 25% of our Board of Directors, Astro is a place with equal opportunity for all to shine, regardless of age and gender. Astro is in 56% of Malaysian homes and we desire to serve 100% of them, because Astro is 100% Malaysia. Creating content IPs for a “truly Asia” nation means Astro’s original programmes are ready for regional audiences.

Global Malaysians producing world-class works in Malaysia

Astro is fully supportive of TalentCorp’s initiative to attract local talent abroad back to Malaysia. We believe Malaysians are a global workforce, and Malaysian brands with aspirations to be best-in-class will attract and challenge them to produce world-class works.

 Raymond Tan Corporate Finance, Tax, Treasury &amp; Investor Relations I was excited about Astro’s growth trajectory and the interesting and fun opportunities that this would present. I also wanted to work with, and learn from the dynamic senior management team.	 Najwa Abu Bakar Content Group I was glad to return to Astro after working abroad for 4 years and am excited to be in a company that aspires to achieve global best-in-class standards in content, platforms and new media. It’s also gratifying to work with professionals across various disciplines with common goals to achieve Astro’s aspirations.	 Zaireen Shahrman Human Capital I decided to return home to Malaysia after over a decade of living abroad because of a strong desire to make a difference, to give back to my country and of course, family ties. Astro was naturally my employer of choice because it is truly a home-grown company that fits in a global landscape. And in Human Capital, I get to be part of the team that shapes Astro into a world-class organisation that thrives on the diversity of its workforce.

What's next?

Once you have established your reporting of diversity policies, you may wish to look into a number of key areas in which your D&I policies and practices can be embedded or further improved.

Here are some of the market's best practices for embedding D&I in the organisation.

Bringing D&I policies to life

- Consider increasing your commitment to the need for D&I visibly
- Publicise D&I achievements to ensure everyone is aware of its importance

Implement measures to track D&I metrics

- Gather and track data for new hires, promotions and attrition of staff by gender, ethnicity and age

Implement D&I objectives and targets

- Develop D&I targets for every level of the workforce
- Set KPIs for senior management to strengthen the push for D&I

Implement mandatory and regular training on D&I

- Organise training for new joiners on D&I matters
- Conduct regular training for all employees to inculcate awareness and commitment to D&I
